More Than Just A Rental Store

Customer Focus ... Colacurcio Brothers

Brothers Dan & Frank Colacurcio started their construction company over 1/4 of a century ago with 1 backhoe and 1 dump truck. Today, Colacurcio Brothers is one of the regions' most well-known construction outfits with two separate divisions and over 50 employees.

Nick Cummins, Project Superintendent, has been with the company for over 6 years and says, "It's Colacurcio's commitment to their employees' well-being that is part of their success."

One of the company's current projects being headed up by Nick is the Agape House located in Bellingham at F Street and Roeder Avenue. It is an extension of the Lighthouse Mission and will provide emergency housing for women & children. Nick is extremely proud of Colacurcio's part in helping the Lighthouse Mission on its' quest to help those who can't help themselves.

Rent Ver$u$ Buy...

So why rent, instead of buy equipment for the jobsite?

- You can roll the cost of rental back into the cost of construction
- Maintenance Costs are more than you think (mechanics, time, tools, oils, filters, fuel tanks...).
- Extra Labor Cost associated with owning equipment i.e. when you're done with rental, just call to stop the rent and the operator goes home. When you own the equipment the operator has to stay on the clock to load, help transport and unload the equipment. The same process happens the next day when the operator has to clock on early to load and unload. In addition, the equipment needs to be greased and all fluids are checked to start the day.
- Storage Space you'll need a shop or garage to store your equipment.
- Transportation you need a truck and trailer to haul the equipment, or hire it out.
- Cost of breakdowns when your machine breaks down, you will still have to rent until it's up and running again, costing more money.
- Monthly Payments still need to be made on inactive equipment but you only rent when you have work.
- Licenses and Fees plus renewals, trip permits, etc...

Focus on the job, save $$$ & leave the equipment to us!

Birch...People Strong!

John Milas - Mechanic Assistant - Shop

- Born in Japan & travelled the world before settling in WA. John says he has spare time (hard to believe with 7 kids & a f/t job) but when he does, he calls Square Dancing.

Steven Olson - Mechanic - Shop

- Like a lot of long time Whatcom County residents, Steve's hobbies include crabbing & skiing.
- He attended the Bellingham School of Cosmetology & as a Beauty School Dropout made a career change, deciding to turn wrenches instead!

Dan Backman - Lead Mechanic - Shop

- A Skagit County native, Dan recently moved to Bellingham. He's a snowboarder & likes fixing up old cars.
- Dan likes working at Birch because of the great crew and the vast amount & variety of equipment.
